Cocaine WARS

Move over, Narcos... Andrea Riseborough and Gabriel Byrne star in a thrilling new series about international drug trafficking

NEW DRAMA

ZeroZeroZero

Thursday, Sky Atlantic HD, 9pm

The dark and dangerous world of global drug trafficking comes under the spotlight in Sky Atlantic's fast-paced and violent new thriller ZeroZeroZero as it follows a shipment of cocaine on its journey from the streets of Mexico City to its final destination in Europe.

Created by the team behind hit Mafia series Gomorrah, the eight-part series – which takes its name from the purest form of cocaine – begins with a powerful Italian crime syndicate deciding to buy the cocaine consignment from a Mexican cartel.

Acting as middleman between the two groups is New Orleans businessman Edward Lynwood (Gabriel Byrne), who uses his shipping firm to secretly broker drug deals and traffic vast quantities of drugs across the world.

He's aided and abetted by his daughter Emma (Andrea Riseborough), who has been groomed by Edward to take control of their multimillion-dollar operation.

'Emma wants power and respect,' says Riseborough. 'Her mother died when she was young and it was apocalyptic for the family, so now she wants to be impenetrable and invulnerable.

HEIR APPARENT

'Emma can't afford to have any feelings about what's going on because the weight of the family business stands on her shoulders. She doesn't want to shoulder this business alone, but, ultimately, the more that she carries the weight, the more she gets addicted to it and the more power hungry she becomes.'

The opening episode begins in the picturesque hills of southern Italy, as the ageing kingpin of the Calabrian Mafia or 'Ndrangheta, Don Minu La Piana (Adriano Chiaramida), gathers together the bosses of various crime families to tell them that his latest cocaine deal could net them over $900 million.

In Monterrey, Mexico, the story shifts to the drug producers, as God-fearing special forces soldier Manuel Contreras (Harold Torres) leads a raid on a cartel. But is Manuel as law-abiding and decent as he initially seems?

'The cocaine is the most important thing in the series,' says Riseborough, who has starred in C4 drama National Treasure. 'It connects so many different humans across the world and you see how this lucrative trade affects every single one of them.'

Emma's younger brother, Chris (Dane DeHaan), wants to be involved in the decision-making process of the Lynwood family business. But Chris has Huntington's disease and Edward doesn't want him caught up in their illegal operations.

'Emma has a frustration with the way that Chris' upbringing has been handled,' says Riseborough, 39. 'Because of his sickness, he has been treated like an invalid. She wants him to step up; she doesn't want to do it alone. She also wants the best for him and loves him deeply. That puts a strain on their relationship.'

Don Minu La Piana
Adriano Chiaramida

Manuel Contreras
Harold Torres
The Mexican army sergeant leads the fight against the country's drug traffickers. But is he more involved than it seems?

François Salvage
Tchéky Karyo
A sailor who works for the Lynwoods, François has an important part to play in transporting the drugs.

Stefano La Piana

Jacinto Leyra
Flavio Medina
The powerful Mexican drug lord uses the Lynwoods to ship his cocaine.

However, when the deal goes fatally wrong, Chris is forced to get involved and help Emma as he accompanies the cocaine shipment across the globe.

MULTIPLE LOCATIONS

'The ambition of the series is really exciting,' says DeHaan, 34. 'We filmed in New Orleans, Mexico City, Italy, Senegal and the Moroccan desert, and in lots of different languages. It's a thrilling and dangerous show, with every episode like a little movie.

'We took advantage of the locations, so the series has this gritty, realistic quality – and that's because it's all real. There are some crazy action sequences – crazy things happen on a ship, on helicopters, explosions, chases, and all that stuff. There was rarely a dull day on set.'

DeHaan believes his character's Huntington's disease – a genetic disorder resulting in physical and cognitive impairment – brings an extra level to the family's story.

'Playing someone with a disease, where the show isn't actually about the disease, is a really cool idea, and something we don't see a lot of,' he says. 'Chris is caught up in a situation that's bigger than what's going on with him personally as he tries to save the family business.'

Riseborough, meanwhile, hopes that the series will remind viewers just how far-reaching and destructive the illegal trade in cocaine really is.

'People are losing their lives because of it, so it's a valuable story to tell,' she says. 'We may be telling a fictional tale, but it's based on what a lot of people are living through.

'ZeroZeroZero shows every single step, every individual who makes money or dies because of cocaine. The number of families, children, people all over the world who are affected by the cargo of this substance is astounding.'

BOX SET
All eight episodes of ZeroZeroZero will be available on Sky Box Sets and NOW TV from Thursday 4 February.

DI Poole (Ben Miller)

Ben Miller makes an unexpected return to Saint Marie as DI Richard Poole

Back on the beach

CRIME DRAMA

Death in Paradise

Thursday & Friday, BBC1 HD, 9pm

Two familiar faces return to Saint Marie in a two-part Death in Paradise special this week.

DS Camille Bordey (Sara Martins) and DI Richard Poole (Ben Miller) are both back on the island, and while Camille is home because of an incident involving her mother, Catherine (Élizabeth Bourgine), DI Poole's reappearance is more surprising, considering he was murdered in series three.

Here, Miller, 54, tells TV&Satellite Week how it came about…

Was it a shock to be asked back? It was. I got a call from the producer, Tim Key, who asked me if I fancied coming back for the 10th anniversary. I said, 'Well, I'm dead, aren't I?' And he said, 'I think I may have a way around that…'

Sara Martins as Camille Bordey

Did you have any reservations about coming back? Not at all. Tim told me Sara was coming back for a few episodes, and the storyline was connected to that. I always felt that there was unfinished business between Camille and Richard, so it seemed like a great idea.

Are DI Poole's suits still very hot to wear in the Caribbean sun? They actually had kept the costumes I had 10 years ago – the shirts with the backs cut out. I had this special shirt made that is just the collar and the buttons! I forgot it was going to be as hot as last time, and immediately I was slightly spinning out again. I'm just no good in the heat!

What do you think might have become of DI Poole if he hadn't met a sticky end? He was gradually loosening up, wasn't he? Maybe if that had continued, he would have dropped out of being a policeman and started running some sort of dodgy tourist enterprise. I can see him growing his hair long and sitting open-chested on a skiff with an outboard motor!

Jill Halfpenny plays Jodie

Identity CRISIS

Rupert Penry-Jones and Cody Molko as Mark and Daniel

Jill Halfpenny plays a mother seeking the truth about her missing child in a powerful thriller

NEW DRAMA

The Drowning

Monday-Thursday, Channel 5 HD, 9pm

Secrets, lies and questions of identity are at the heart of Channel 5's explosive new thriller The Drowning, which explores a mother's battle to prove that a teenage boy is really her missing son.

The drama, which is running over four nights this week, stars Jill Halfpenny as troubled gardener Jodie, whose life was shattered when her four-year-old, Tom, vanished during a family day out at a lake.

Jodie has spent the ensuing nine years trying to rebuild her life, but she's forced to confront her tragic past when she spots a schoolboy, Daniel (Cody Molko), who bears a startling resemblance to Tom.

'Jodie has considered Tom might be dead, but, during the police investigation, they dredged the lake and didn't find him,' says Halfpenny, 45, most recently seen in Liar and Dark Money.

'Jodie has been trying to piece herself back together, but when she sees Daniel and notices he has the same scar as Tom, she desperately wants it to be her son. But there are so many questions unanswered.'

OBSESSION

The police and Jodie's ex Ben (Dara Devaney), Tom's father, don't believe her, but Jodie sets out to prove that Daniel is Tom by cheating her way into a job as a music tutor at his school and engineering an encounter with Daniel's single father Mark (Rupert Penry-Jones).

'Her actions are against the law but I've sympathy for Jodie,' says Halfpenny. 'Her intentions are pure. If something happens to your child, you do everything in your power to get to the truth. You see someone like Doreen Lawrence [the mother of murdered teenager Stephen Lawrence] and she has dedicated her life to getting justice. Grief drives you.'

Jonas Armstrong plays Jason

Jodie's ex Ben (Dara Devaney)

As Jodie's fixation with Daniel increases, she grows isolated from her best friend Yasmin (Jade Anouka), her supportive lawyer brother Jason (Jonas Armstrong) and their difficult mother Lynn (Deborah Findlay).

'Tom's disappearance has had a huge impact on everybody who was at the lake that day, and when Daniel appears, it all kicks off,' explains Armstrong, who is best known for his roles in Robin Hood and the first series of crime drama The Bay. 'But Jason loves Jodie dearly and he understands her trauma.'

When Jodie makes one last desperate move, however, the shocking truth about what really happened at the lake and everyone's actions on the fateful day come into focus, as she finally learns whether Daniel is Tom.

'Jodie grows more extreme, but she starts being given clues, so you understand why she keeps going forward like a runaway train,' explains Halfpenny. 'No one's telling the truth, everyone's living a lie and not everything is black and white.'

'There are lots of twists and turns, deceit and red herrings,' agrees Armstrong, 40. 'Secrets become unravelled – it's almost like an episode of Miss Marple.'

UP AGAINST THE ELEMENTS

For Halfpenny, getting into Jodie's tortured mindset proved fulfilling but gruelling.

'Jodie is tense, adrenalised and manipulative, so she is never relaxed. That was exhausting, but in a good way, because you explore different elements of a person,' she explains. 'After filming, it took me a while to get rid of Jodie, so I would think about things that make me feel good to counteract the gloominess.'

Meanwhile, for Armstrong, the physical side of the shoot in Ireland put him to the test.

'Filming at Lough Dan was a challenge because we were up against the elements, but it was so rewarding,' he says. 'There are stunts, too. It's called The Drowning, so there is stuff on boats and swimming and that was a real thrill. I like to throw myself in.'

NEW ENTERTAINMENT

Rob & Romesh Vs...

Thursday, Sky One HD, 10pm

Comedians and good mates Rob Beckett and Romesh Ranganathan reunite this week to try their hand at a new batch of challenges in a third series of Rob & Romesh Vs..., which sees them attempting things they've never done before.

Having previously immersed themselves in disciplines from ballet to boxing, this time the pair learn all about art, golf and drag. TV&Satellite Week caught up with them to hear more...

Absolute beginners

Comedians Rob Beckett and Romesh Ranganathan tackle the very different worlds of art, golf and drag

EPISODE ONE Art

In this week's opener, the boys attempt to produce a nude sculpture of a male model, try their hand at performance art and create their very own artwork for public view at London's prestigious Saatchi Gallery...

BECKETT I'd never been into an art gallery before filming this episode. When you're from a working-class background, it feels quite alien. Going into the gallery was like a school trip where you think you're going to get told off. But, after doing this, I might actually go into an art gallery again next time I'm near one – although the reality is, I'll probably pop in for 10 minutes and then think, 'Right, that's enough. I'm off to the cinema!'

RANGANATHAN The thing I found weird about performance art is, it's very difficult to know whether you're doing it well or not. Quilla Constance, our performance-art expert, said, 'You're enjoying it too much – you're undermining the art.' But if you told me I could make a living smashing a potato while screaming, I'd be bang up for it.

BECKETT With our sculpting experience, the problem was that a naked man's willy is funny, isn't it? Also, until I did this, I didn't know that when a man laughs, his willy moves, too. Next time I do a gig and get a laugh, I'll be imagining all the willy-wiggling going on.

Ranganathan tries performance art

EPISODE TWO Golf

The pair take a golf lesson from Ryder Cup star Justin Rose, and get to tee off at the BMW PGA Championship live on Sky Sports...

Playing the eighth hole at Wentworth

The pair caddy for the pros

BECKETT In this series, we've been limited on where we can go because of lockdown, so the idea of doing golf for an episode was perfect and it proved to be interesting and so funny. We went to St Andrews and Wentworth, two of the best courses in the world. I would have loved to have gone to Augusta, just for a holiday, but....

RANGANATHAN It's difficult to predict how each episode is going to turn out. But as long as there's something to get our teeth into, we'll pretty much have a go at anything. I love Rob, but when you do this show, it brings you together for intense amounts of time under quite stressful situations and we actually thought there was a good chance we were going to fall out and possibly come to blows – but it hasn't happened yet.

EPISODE THREE Drag

For the final episode, the pair become drag queens with the help of RuPaul's Drag Race UK contestants The Vivienne and Baga Chipz, get tips from style icon Michelle Visage to find their drag personas and perform to a live audience...

Beckett takes to the stage in drag

BECKETT I actually fancied Romesh in drag – I'll get that out there early doors.

RANGANATHAN I found Rob attractive, too. I got carried away and shaved my beard off. I forgot what my face looked like and, as I did it, it was so horrific.

BECKETT Your wife was furious!

RANGANATHAN Yeah, Leesa was furious. I went home and my youngest son wouldn't come near me. He said, 'You don't look like my dad.'

BECKETT We were both quite desperate to be sexy. Neither of us are ever in those polls like 'Weird Celebrity Crush' or 'Torso of the Week'. Which of us was the most sexy? I think it's down to your type, really. Romesh and I tick very different boxes.

RANGANATHAN I'd say with us, it was a thin line between sexy and terrifying...

Ranganathan suffers a wardrobe malfunction...

True confessions

Celebrities reveal the worst things they've done in Mel Giedroyc's hilarious new series

NEW COMEDY

Mel Giedroyc: Unforgivable

Tuesday, Dave HD, 10pm

Mel Giedroyc is in the mood for mischief in Dave's new laugh-out-loud series, which sees famous faces confessing to their most outrageous and embarrassing stories.

Assisted by 8 Out of 10 Cats' Lou Sanders, Giedroyc will be inviting three celebrities every week to spill their naughtiest antics in a bid to be declared the most unforgivable person in the room.

Guest stars exposing their sins in the eight-part series include Jimmy Carr, Clare Balding, Tom Allen, Jennifer Saunders, Harry Redknapp, Chris Kamara and Richard Ayoade – plus there'll be confessions from the audience and surprise guest stars.

This week's first episode features Graham Norton's risqué revelation about a one-night stand, Desiree Burch confessing to a past infidelity, and Alex Brooker's tale about being aroused at a funeral.

Host Mel Giedroyc and, below, guests Alex Brooker, Graham Norton and Clare Balding

How did you get so many stars to make their confessions?
Everyone was so up for it. We filmed Unforgivable between two lockdowns and everybody was giddy as they'd not performed for a while. The aim of the game is that the person who can make themselves most unforgivable wins. It's a celebration of the outrageous.

What sins do they own up to?
We've got everything from eating pets to scandalous goings-on in the bath. Childhood stories are always brilliant because when you're a child you don't have quite the same moral compass you have as you get older. Relationships are also fertile territory and the world of work is good, too – it often involves jobs that people didn't like very much and brought out their naughty side.

Who is the naughtiest of them all?
Graham Norton doesn't shy away from telling stories about himself – there's a good one about an incident with his dog in the park. But Clare Balding is one of my all-time favourites. We know and love her, so hearing her dish some dirt about herself is hilarious. There's nothing better than sitting around and just having a laugh.

Is it a competitive environment?
There definitely was a sense of who's got the worst story. We had a small audience of about 35 people, so the celebrities loved getting laughs and started egging each other on. Stories from real life are always the most outrageous!

Do you make any confessions in the series? There are a few along the way. They just came blurting out – including one about working in catering on a friend's short film with Sue Perkins. Never, ever treat a waitress badly. You'll end up with snot, or worse, in your food.

Stephen Fry

It's a Sin

Friday, C4 HD, 9pm

Stephen Fry became a household name in the 1980s with comedy partner Hugh Laurie in their BBC sketch show A Bit of Fry & Laurie (1987-1995). During that time, Fry also starred in BBC1's Blackadder and ITV's Jeeves and Wooster. Between 2003 and 2016, he hosted the panel show QI and he's also appeared in Veep as a corrupt Georgian politician. His film roles include Wilde (1997) and The Hobbit films (2013-14).

HIS NEW ROLE

This week, Fry, 63, joins the cast of hard-hitting C4 drama It's a Sin as Arthur Garrison, MP for the fictitious Richfield South and part of Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government. It's now 1986 and as the AIDS epidemic begins to hit hard, Garrison appears to be keeping his sexuality a secret from everyone around him. But when Roscoe (Omari Douglas) gatecrashes a swanky political event, the pair end up having an illicit affair. Will Garrison's position of power mean trouble for Roscoe?

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Those Who Kill

Thursday, FOX HD, 10pm

Fans of dark and twisted crime dramas like Criminal Minds won't want to miss FOX's gritty new US series, Those Who Kill.

Set in Pittsburgh, the 10-parter centres on Catherine Jensen, played by Hollywood star Chloë Sevigny, a homicide detective who has a deeply tortured past.

At the same time as she relentlessly hunts down serial killers, she is also seeking the truth behind the disappearance of her brother – and thinks his case is linked to their stepfather, Judge Howard Burgess (Bruce Davison), who she suspects is a serial killer, too.

'It's a pretty subversive show,' says Sevigny, 46. 'Catherine is hell-bent on bringing down her stepfather, who she believes molested and possibly killed her brother when they were children. Until she finds some justice, she can never live her life fully.'

In order to provide insight into her homicide cases, and also her brother's disappearance, Catherine turns to academic Thomas Schaeffer (James D'Arcy), a forensic psychologist with demons of his own.

DETERMINED

'When we meet Thomas, he's made a promise to his wife that he's not going to work on active cases any more,' says D'Arcy, 45. 'But pretty quickly, he's drawn back into that world, for reasons that become clearer as the season goes on.

'It takes a great toll on him, but he does this work because he truly believes that he has a skill set that could make the world a safer place.'

Best known for roles in Agent Carter and Broadchurch, D'Arcy worked with an FBI profiler to ensure he made his character as authentic as possible.

'I've managed to go nearly 20 years without ever playing a lawyer or a police officer, so some of the dialogue was difficult for me at first,' explains the British actor. 'Chloë has never played a police officer before in her career either, so the pair of us were trying to discover it together.'

The series, which also stars 24's James Morrison as Catherine's boss, Frank Bisgaard, features several gruesome cases, and the actors were determined not to let the atmosphere on set get too dark.

'Pittsburgh is a great city and the rest of the cast were adorable,' says D'Arcy. 'We made a decision early on that we were going to have a good time, no matter what – and we did.'

Sun-drenched daytime cop series The Mallorca Files returns for a second outing this week, as workaholic detective Miranda Blake (Elen Rhys) and her laid-back partner Max Winter (Julian Looman) investigate more crimes on the Balearic island.

Mallorca – and she's even becoming used to Max's quirks, too.

'Season one was about Miranda wanting to go home. She was resistant to her new life and determined not to connect with Max,' explains Rhys, 37.

TEAMWORK

'But now that she's decided to stay, you'll see the lighter side of her character and there's less conflict between her and Max.'

However, crime remains rife on Mallorca and there are some hard-hitting investigations, including the murder of a famous opera singer, a smuggling ring and the devastating legacy of the Spanish Civil War.

One of Rhys' favourite moments of the whole shoot was riding a horse.

'It's always fun being on a horse, but these ones misbehaved at every opportunity,' she laughs. 'Julian's horse was quite frisky, and there's one scene where it looks like he's about to fall off, and his hat blows off. It might look planned, but it definitely wasn't!'

Carey Mulligan and Ralph Fiennes star in the remarkable story of Sutton Hoo

Carey Mulligan as Edith Pretty

NETFLIX The Dig

NEW Genre: Period drama Available: Friday 29 January Runs: 112min
TVSW says: A fascinating slice of British history

In the summer of 1939, the world teetered on the brink of war, yet while storm clouds gathered over Europe, in a quiet corner of Suffolk a self-taught archaeologist was making one of the most staggering historical discoveries of all time.

Below: Peggy Preston (Lily James)

Basil Brown had unearthed a treasure-laden, 7th-century Anglo-Saxon burial ship, believed to be the grave of King Rædwald, on the estate of aristocratic widow Edith Pretty and news of the find made headlines all over the world.

Now, the tale of this momentous discovery at Sutton Hoo is told in a Netflix film starring Ralph Fiennes as Basil and Carey Mulligan as Edith, with support from Lily James as archaeologist Peggy Preston, who worked on the site and whose nephew wrote the novel upon which the film's script was based.

We spoke to Fiennes, 58, and Mulligan, 35, to dig a little deeper…

What first attracted you to this project?

Fiennes I connected to it in quite a personal way because I was born in Suffolk. We shot most of the film in Surrey, but I kept badgering the director, saying, 'We must shoot in Suffolk!' and we did go there for some geographical shots.

Tell us more about the find…

Mulligan During the war, that land was used by the military as a training site, so they were a year away from the whole thing being flattened and it never being discovered. That feeling of wonder and awe as they found a burial ship that had been there for more than a thousand years was very special. It felt like something I hadn't seen on screen before.

Mulligan We had to dig poor Ralph out and there was a lot of pressure, because I didn't want to be responsible for the demise of one of our greatest living actors!

Edith, son Robert and Basil Brown (Ralph Fiennes)

What is the connection between your characters?

Mulligan There was something about their relationship I found really exciting, because it wasn't romantic; it was based on mutual appreciation. They were both fascinated by the same subject and, despite different circumstances, they found a connection.

Basil wasn't credited for his work until many years later. How did it feel to honour his achievement?

Fiennes It was brilliant. He was an extraordinary man who didn't figure much in the history books for many years. He lived in a little village in Suffolk until his 80s and people would come and ask for his advice, showing him bits of pottery or things they'd found. Apparently his room was filled with objects and the strong smell of pipe tobacco.

Owen Wilson and Salma Hayek buckle up for a mind-altering sci-fi thriller

Greg (Owen Wilson) and Isabel (Salma Hayek)

Bliss

NEW Genre: Drama Available: Friday 5 February Runs: 103min
TVSW says: A romantic version of The Matrix

Hollywood stars Owen Wilson and Salma Hayek go on a wild, reality-bending adventure in Amazon Prime Video's new romantic drama, Bliss.

Wilson plays down-on-his-luck Greg, who's recently divorced and has just lost his job. But a chance encounter with Isabel (Hayek), a mysterious woman who lives on the streets, changes everything.

Isabel, who already seems to know Greg, is convinced that the world is just a computer-generated simulation and that even the people around them aren't real.

What follows is a truth-twisting roller-coaster ride, with Isabel showing off her telekinesis skills and attempting to alter Greg's world view away from his own broken reality.

'Bliss is a love story, an adventure story and a science-fiction movie about life inside a simulation,' explains writer-director Mike Cahill, who penned and directed 2011 sci-fi film Another Earth. 'Humans have an important relationship with the unreal and I wanted to tell a story about the fragility of the mind and the malleability of our perception.'

COMPELLING THEORY

At first, Greg is doubtful of Isabel's claims that the world is an illusion, and, as such, doesn't require a moral investment. However, he soon starts to believe there may be some truth in her compelling theory and even learns to harness Isabel's mind-bending powers for himself.

But Greg's two worlds collide when his daughter, Emily (Nesta Cooper), tracks him down and begs him to come back to reality. Isabel insists that Emily is a computer-generated illusion and tells Greg to ignore his daughter, but whose version of reality will Greg believe – Isabel's or Emily's?

Isabel takes Greg on an unreal adventure

'Isabel claims that Emily, like everyone else they see, is nothing more than a video-game character, but Greg has a tremendous reservoir of emotion and attachment to his daughter,' explains Cahill, who says he was fortunate to have the likes of Wilson and Hayek heading up the cast.

'Working with Owen and Salma was an amazing experience. They're brilliant actors and they both have different, complementary qualities. Together, they are explosive on screen.'

these islands. It was touching to be travelling in this country and realise how little I knew of it. I fell more deeply in love with the customs, people and countryside.

Some places you visit have a personal connection. Have you enjoyed looking back? Yes. We didn't want a boring programme all about me, but virtually everywhere we went, I've been there or worked there. So I drive a replica of James Bond's Aston Martin DB5 [at Silverstone, in homage to her appearance in 1969's On Her Majesty's Secret Service], and we examine the legend of Dracula in Whitby [Lumley starred in 1974 Hammer horror film The Satanic Rites of Dracula].

You also visit Salford and reunite with Corrie's William Roache, AKA Ken Barlow, whose girlfriend, Elaine Perkins, you played in 1973. What was that like? It brought it all back. I was never allowed in the Rovers Return back then, so it was a huge plus for me to be in there with Bill. It was wonderful to get a sense of the huge history of that phenomenal show.

Were there any places you'd never visited that surprised you? Yes, I'd been to Snowdonia, but never to the great slate quarries there, and I had no idea that in the 19th century Snowdonia roofed the world – anything slate came from these phenomenal mines. Beatrix Potter's home in the Lake District was fascinating, too, because I knew her stories and longed to see her little garden.

How tough was it to film the show during the pandemic? Did it make a big difference? Lots of what we did was outside, and we were tested all the time. We don't talk about it much in the series, apart from during an extraordinary visit to Eyam in Derbyshire. That heroic village locked itself down [during the bubonic plague] in 1665, and they contained the disease there. We come from a strong and brave line of people.

Did you reach any conclusions during your travels about British life? Yes, the idea that our strengths in this country lie in all our differences, and we are united by them. There may also be an island feeling. We're defensive, but we're a welcoming place full of glory.

The story of Cecil, the 13-year-old lion who was killed by a trophy hunter

NEW WILDLIFE

Cecil: The Legacy of a King

Mon, National Geographic WILD, 9pm

When Cecil the lion was killed by an American trophy hunter, the news made headlines across the world and sparked outrage.

Cecil, a magnificent 13-year-old lion with a black-fringed mane, was a protected animal and well known to visitors at Zimbabwe's Hwange National Park, where he was a popular attraction.

But in 2015, Walter Palmer, a Minnesota dentist and avid trophy hunter, shot Cecil with a bow and arrow, reportedly paying $50,000 to a Zimbabwean hunter-guide for the 'pleasure'.

'The last time I saw Cecil, we were tracking him from his radio collar and found him sitting on the road, completely unconcerned,' says zoologist Dr Andrew Loveridge, who had studied Cecil for eight years.

'Six weeks later, someone comes along with a bow and arrow and shoots him. It is incredibly distressing when an animal you've got to know is subjected to a very painful death.'

Hunter Walter Palmer

AFTERMATH

Now, Cecil's life story and legacy is told in this documentary, from his birth in 2002 to the killing of his brother by another lion and how he fought off rivals to maintain his own territory and pride.

Five years after his death, his story has prompted several countries, including the UK, to review their policies on importing hunting trophies.

'It exposed what hunting is all about,' says Loveridge, who wrote about the killing of Cecil in his book Lion Hearted. 'And there has been a lot of change in the way governments choose to manage it.'

Loveridge adds that trophy hunting is only a part of the problem when it comes to dwindling lion populations.

'If you banned hunting, lions could still become extinct, because the biggest threat is losing their habitat,' he says. 'It's not enough to just focus on hunting – protecting their habitat is what's going to save them.'

PREMIERE OF THE WEEK

Birds of Prey and the Fantabulous Emancipation of One Harley Quinn

FANTASY ACTION COMEDY

Friday, Sky Premiere HD, 1pm & 8pm ★★★★

Though Birds Of Prey picks up with DC Comics icon Harley Quinn after 2016's Suicide Squad, there's no need to have seen that movie in order to follow this one. An animated prologue brings you up to speed and sets the zany (and violent) mood.

We learn that psychiatrist-turned-crime-queen Harley (Margot Robbie) has explosively uncoupled from the Joker. Trouble is, she no longer has the protection that comes with being on the arm of Gotham's most lethal gangster. And so out of the woodwork come a multitude of crims looking for payback… which puts Harley on a collision course with the women who will end up forming her new gang.

While this is very much The Harley Show, the others get a fair shake. Helena Bertinelli aka Huntress (Mary Elizabeth Winstead) is a crossbow-wielding assassin; Dinah Lance aka Black Canary (Jurnee Smollett) is a club singer with a unique voice; detective Renee Montoya (Rosie Perez) fights crime and prejudice at Gotham PD; and light-fingered Cassandra Cain (Ella Jay Basco) pilfers a diamond that kickstarts the plot. In the villains' corner are Roman Sionis (Ewan McGregor) and his sadistic henchman Victor Zsasz (Chris Messina).

That's a lot of lively, colourful characters to juggle, but director Cathy Yan keeps the plates spinning very effectively. With a roller-derby pace, it's relentless, hyperactive and viciously entertaining. Just like Harley herself. 2020, 15, 109 MIN

ANIMATED FANTASY

Weathering With You

Wednesday, Sky Premiere HD, 11.55am & 9pm ★★★★

It never rains but it pours in this Japanese animated fantasy from writer-director Makoto Shinkai, who made the brilliant Your Name. Respite from the deluge comes from teenage enigma Hina (voiced by Nana Mori), who has the uncanny ability to pray the rain away. When she's befriended by 16-year-old runaway Hodaka (Kotaro Daigo) the duo go into business, offering the services of 'Sunshine Girl' to anyone desperate for clear skies for their wedding/party/family do. Quirky laughs and jaunty montages follow, but it's not long before black clouds gather, in all senses. Themes of romantic anguish, possible delusion and sacrifice start to brew, and there's the bubbling threat of gunplay. The story has dry patches, but Shinkai often matches the intensity and imagination of the wildly successful Your Name. Bring a brolly! 2019, 12, 112 MIN

Largely referring to its characters with nicknames like 'The Brit', 'The Babe' and 'The Badass', the forgettable Paydirt similarly lacks nuance when it comes to plotting. Luke Goss plays Damien, a gun-runner who emerges from prison and assembles a team to recover buried cash in California. Saint Maud

From Monday ★★★★

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

Pious palliative nurse Maud (the brilliant Morfydd Clark) has a mission: to save the soul of her dying patient, Amanda (Jennifer Ehle). A former dancer, choreographer and minor celebrity, the hedonistic Amanda looks on the uptight Maud's quest with amused irony and, at times, fond indulgence. A tale then, surely, of religious repression versus worldly sensuality? First-time writer-director Rose Glass's striking psychological thriller is, however, far more ambivalent and disturbing than that. Set in a bleak and tacky British seaside resort, Saint Maud gives us an altogether unnerving depiction of spirituality and sexuality. 2020, 15, 84 MIN

This glossy biopic of Nobel Prize-winning mathematician John Forbes Nash Jr (played by Russell Crowe), who suffered for many years from paranoid schizophrenia, omits many of his less admirable traits and also fails to explain what made his ground-breaking theories so unique. Even so, the film won four Oscars (including Best Picture) and Crowe's magnetic performance keeps it compelling. 2001, 12, 136MIN

A grey-haired Tom Cruise bursts into awesome action as a hitman who hails an LA cab driven by nice Jamie Foxx and forces him to drive him on a night of killing. Writer-director Michael Mann's thriller is mesmerisingly mean and moody. Cruise and Foxx are perfect, there's a welcome sideline in humour and the night-time LA landscape has rarely been depicted with such sordid beauty. 2014, 15, 115MIN

ATP Cup

Novak Djokovic and Rafael Nadal lead their nations in the Melbourne team tournament

World No.1 Novak Djokovic

THE MAIN EVENT

LIVE TENNIS

Monday-Friday, Amazon Prime Video

The ATP Cup was a welcome addition to the tennis calendar when it made its debut in Australia last year. The men's team tournament, played in the run-up to the Australian Open, brought together some of the biggest stars in the sport – and there's an equally impressive line-up as this year's competition begins on Monday.

The event was originally set to feature 24 nations playing in three cities, but the continuing pandemic has meant a change of plan – with 12 countries now competing at Melbourne Park, which hopes to have fans in attendance at its various courts, including the main Rod Laver Arena.

Sadly, Great Britain isn't represented at the five-day event (after reaching the quarter-finals last year), but there will be plenty of top-quality tennis to keep fans glued to their screens.

Here, we look at what's in store…

THE PLAYERS

Last year's final, which saw Serbia defeat Spain 2-1, provided a thrilling climax to the championship, and included a tantalising match-up between Novak Djokovic and Rafael Nadal. Both men are back to lead their nations again, while other top stars include ATP Finals winner Daniil Medvedev – who leads a Russia team that also features rising star Andrey Rublev, the winner of five ATP tournaments in 2020 – and US Open winner Dominic Thiem, who will attempt to lead Austria to glory. Japan's Kei Nishikori returns to action after his elbow injury, and Stefanos Tsitsipas, who made the French Open semi-final last October, leads a Greece team that features his brother, Petros, ranked 960th in the world.

THE FORMAT

This year's ATP Cup features 12 nations, with each team consisting of four players. The countries are split into four groups of three in a round-robin format, with the group winners qualifying for the semi-finals. Each tie is comprised of two singles matches and one doubles match, with the country that wins two matches claiming the tie.

THE NATIONS

Last year, Novak Djokovic inspired his Serbia team to take the competition's inaugural title and the Serbs are back this year – as top seeds – as they seek to defend their crown. Roger Federer's knee injury has meant that Switzerland has withdrawn from the event, leaving Serbia to be joined by Spain, Argentina, Italy, Austria, Japan, Russia, France, Greece, Canada, Germany, and the hosts, Australia.

Palmeiras have reached their first final in over 20 years, having won the tournament in 1999.

FIRST LOOK

Time

Sean Bean and Stephen Graham star in a gripping prison drama

Mark Cobden (Sean Bean) and Eric McNally (Stephen Graham)

Take a look at this compelling shot from acclaimed writer Jimmy McGovern's tense new BBC1 drama Time, starring Sean Bean and Stephen Graham, which explores the unflinching reality of life in a British jail.

The three-part series, currently filming in the Liverpool area, sees Bean play guilt-ridden Mark Cobden, who is separated from his family as he serves a four-year sentence for accidentally killing an innocent man. Although he willingly accepts his punishment, he soon realises that he will have to fight for his survival behind bars.

TOUGH CHOICES

Graham, who co-starred with Bean in a 2012 episode of McGovern's Accused, plays prison officer Eric McNally. Dedicated and protective, Eric faces a terrible choice between his principles and his loved ones when one of the prison's most dangerous inmates discovers and tries to exploit his weakness.

Siobhan Finneran, Sue Johnston, Hannah Walters, David Calder, Nadine Marshall, Michael Socha, Aneurin Barnard and Jack McMullen also star in the series.

'Getting to be involved in a Jimmy McGovern drama again is a real privilege and it is great to be reunited with Stephen,' says Bean. 'Mark is another one of Jimmy's complex and superbly-written characters.'

'It is an absolute honour to be working with Jimmy again, I'm feeling blessed,' adds Graham. 'And, of course, I am made up to be back on set with Sean.'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Dame Emma Thompson

Netflix's new take on the award-winning musical version of Roald Dahl's novel Matilda will see her play horrid headmistress Miss Trunchbull alongside Alisha Weir as Matilda and Lashana Lynch as kindly teacher Miss Honey.

Lesley Manville

The actor will star in I Am Maria, part of Dominic Savage's semi-improvised C4 anthology drama series I Am..., which will take a look at the cracks in a long-term relationship. Suranne Jones and Letitia Wright star in other instalments.

Daniel Dae Kim

In a new run of National Geographic's anthology The Hot Zone, the actor portrays an FBI agent investigating the terrifying anthrax attacks that took place across America in 2001 in the wake of 9/11.

Coming Back

Glow Up: Britain's Next Make-up Star, BBC3 Online's contest for make-up artists, returns for a third series. Maya Jama replaces Stacey Dooley as host. 'I'm obsessed with make-up and creating new looks – it's going to be fun', says Jama.
